RESEARCH EXPERIENCE

Current Co-Investigator, University of Southern California
Project: Complex PTSD study
Co-Investigator: John Briere, PhD

2000-2003 Ph.D. Dissertation Research, University of British Columbia

- Project: PTSD and Associated Features as Mediators of Adult Revictimization and Perpetration. Investigation of whether PTSD and Associated Features mediate between childhood maltreatment and later revictimization, as well as later perpetration of violence with incarcerated offenders
- 2001 Investigator, Correctional Service of Canada
Co-investigators: W. Carson Smiley, Ph.D., Correctional Service of Canada; Claire Frederick, M.D., Harvard University Medical School
Project: Assessed the effectiveness of an intensive, manualized treatment program for high-risk incarcerated sex offenders. Offenders were followed up in the community over a ten-year period following their release from prison, and violent offenses were coded as outcome variables.
- 2000 Co-investigator, Vancouver Hospital and Health Sciences Centre
Co-researchers: Inna Vlashev, Ph.D., Greg Passey, M.D., Desiree Prisman, Ph.D., & Regan Shercliffe, Ph.D., Vancouver General Hospital Department of Outpatient Psychiatry
Project: Analysis of treatment outcome with a group of individuals who suffer from severe personality disorders (including Borderline Personality Disorder) and who have not responded primary and secondary interventions.
- 1994-1996 Master's Thesis Research
Department of Psychology, Simon Fraser University
Project: Assessing Risk of Violence in Mentally Disordered Offenders with the HCR-20. This project was designed to assess the psychometric properties of the HCR-20, and to determine its' validity in terms of predicting violence in forensic psychiatric inpatients.
- 1995-1996 Research Assistant, Simon Fraser University
Department of Psychology, Risk Assessment Lab
Project: This study was a pilot study to assess the predictive validity of an instrument (the HCR-20) in assessing risk of future violence. I wrote a scoring manual for the HCR-20, and collected and analyzed archival data.
- 1992-1996 Clinical/Research Assistant, Forensic Psychiatric Institute
Department of Psychology, Port Coquitlam, B.C.
Project: This project was designed to assess the longterm functioning of patients who were found either Not Criminally Responsible due to Mental Disorder (NCRMD) or Unfit to Stand Trial. I conducted semi-structured interviews and did psychometric testing with adult in-patients; managed the database
- 1994 Research Assistant, BC Institute Against Family Violence
Vancouver, B.C.
Project: This project was designed to assess functioning of men who engaged in domestic violence against their partners, and to compare men's self-reports of violence and conflict resolution with their partner's reports. I administered psychometric tests and interviews to persons who had experienced or committed family violence.
- 1993-1994 Honour's Thesis Research, Simon Fraser University

Department of Psychology

Project: The predictive validity of the PCL-R in high risk mentally disordered offenders. This study looked at the validity of the Psychopathy Checklist, Revised in terms of predicting future violence.

1992-1995

Senior Research Assistant, Simon Fraser University

Psychophysiology Lab, Department of Psychology

Project: This project was designed to assess physiological markers in response to food stimuli with individuals who suffer from eating disorders. I conducted psychophysiological studies and analyzed computerized data; managed the lab and trained new assistants; recruited and scheduled research participants; and managed the database.

1993 Research Assistant, Simon Fraser University

Brain and Behavior Lab, Department of Psychology

Project: This project was designed to assess event-related brain wave potentials in response to a 40-hertz tone, in order to localize the area of the human brain where this information is processed. I conducted EEG studies and computerized Dipole analyses.
